State Museum Gearing Up
For Beach Music Day

Columbia, S.C. --- South Carolina's official popular music – beach music – will be the focus at the state's official museum – the South Carolina State Museum - on Beach Music Day, May 21, from 7 p.m. until – well, until late!

Along with partners the Beach Music Association International, the museum will present a shakin', shag dancin' evening that will feature an array of great beach music talent, including the Sensational Epics, Second Nature, the Footnotes and the Soul City Classics Revue.

“The Revue is a treat by itself, as it will feature live appearances by Billy Scott, Ceasar, Larissa Holliday and Clay Brown performing with pre-recorded tracks in between the other bands,” said State Museum Director of Education and Public Programs Meika Samuel.

“Put together, the bands and the solo performers will make May 21 a memorable night for all fans of beach music and our state dance, the shag.”

Advance ticket prices are $12 for general public ($10 members) and will be available through the website after May 1. Tickets on the day of the show will be $15 ($12 members).

For more information, contact Laurie Belger at (803) 898-4936 or visit the Museum's Web site at southcarolinastatemuseum.org.
